

THE 9TH SUCCEEDS THE 7TH.
COLONEL SEWARD'S REGIMENT IN CAMP.

FORTUNATE IN HAVING MOONLIGHT NIGHTS—542 OFFICERS AND MEN.

The 9th Infantry, N. G. S. N. Y., assembled at its armory in West Twenty-sixth-st. at 9 a.m. yesterday and, after a careful inspection, marched to the pier at the foot of West Twenty-second-st. where the huge transport Columbia, gayly decked with flags and streamers, was waiting to convey the regiment to the State Camp at Peekskill. The men were in State service uniform, with white standing collars, helmets, white gloves, knapsacks with overcoats rolled on top of them, haversacks and canteens, and presented a warlike appearance. Preceded by thirty drummers, ten fifers and Contero's 9th Regiment Band, they filed across the gang-plank. When this was drawn in, the ropes were cast off and the steamer started up the Hudson with 542 officers and men aboard, the band playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me"—while the said girl stood numerous on the wharf and wildly waved her farewell greeting. Captain S. E. Japha was detailed as officer of the day, First Lieutenant F. S. Rice and Second Lieutenant W. E. Cooke as officers of the guard, before the regiment left the armory, and twenty-one men were detailed to relieve the sentries of the 7th Infantry on post as soon as the regiment arrived at the camp near Peekskill.

The 9th Regiment is fortunate in being ordered to a week for which moonlight nights are promised. Its fine band will give concerts every night and there is probability of much flirtation after the fatigues of days spent in drilling, parading and sharp-shooting. Colonel Seward said to a TRIBUNE reporter, before the regiment departed, that the week would be a hard one for the men. The most difficult discipline to be maintained and the most difficult to depict themselves to the object of the encampment, which is to instruct the men thoroughly in the duties of the soldier in the field. He found when he last took the regiment to camp, July 1, 1863, that a week of practice improved its skill and gave more hope for the best results during the coming week. He was especially pleased with the manner in which business firms employing members of the regiment had responded to his call to give the men time in which they might accompany the regiment to Peekskill. He addressed letters to the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Hudson Railway Company, the Metropole Hotel & Co., the Second Avenue Railroad Company and other corporations and firms, reminding them that in times of public service they must depend upon the National Guard for protection, and that they should grant their employees, whose military services are voluntary, an opportunity to perfect themselves in their duties as citizen-soldiers. In every case he received a favorable answer.

Colonel Seward has issued a general order prescribing the hours for service and roll-calls while in camp as follows:

Musicians call, 5 a.m.
Navy call, 6 a.m.
Company call and ride practice, 6:05 a.m.
Break from drill, 7 a.m.
Breakfast, 7:30 a.m.
Guard mounting, 8:30 a.m.
Battalion drill, 9:20 a.m.
Battalion drill, 10:30 a.m.
First sergeants call, 12 m.
Dinner call, 12:30 p.m.
Supper, 1:30 p.m.
Retreat at sunset.
Dinner p.m.
Taps, 6:30 p.m.

Two companies each day will be detailed for rifle practice. The 40th and 41st Separate Companies from Syracuse will be in camp on the 27th, the 9th Regiment—the first with seven men under the command of First Lieutenant R. Griffin, and the second with sixty-five men, commanded by Captain Welcome B. Randall. They will form a part of Colone Seward's command.

This morning at 8 o'clock the Rev. Dr. E. A. Reed, of the First Avenue Reformed Church, who is the chaplain of the 9th Regiment, will conduct divine service in the parade-ground, preaching a sermon from the text: "What is life?"

Today the veterans of the regiment and their lady friends will take the steamer General Sedgwick, leaving West Twenty-third-st. at 10 a.m., and will pay a visit to the veterans at the State Camp, returning to New York in the evening.

As the 9th will return to this city on the Fourth of July it will be compelled to come by rail, all the large steamboats in this vicinity being chartered for excursion parties.

The 9th Regiment, which dates its organization from the time of the war of 1812, is the only National Guard organization of this State, except the 14th Regiment, that served through the entire war for the Union.

The field and staff officers of this regiment are as follows:

Colonel William Seward, Jr., Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas R. East, Major, Charles H. Bartlett, Adjutant, Lieut. D. L. Palmer, Chaplain, Reuben E. Britton, Surgeon, W. Remond Verney, Surgeon, Stephen W. Root, Assistant-Surgeon, Alvin C. Smith, Paymaster, and A. Reed, Inspector of Cavalry, G. Henry Witham.

All of them are with the regiment in camp, and all of the line officers except First Lieutenant W. R. Clough, whose wife is ill; First Lieutenant J. N. Billings, who is ill; and Second Lieutenant Theodore S. Croft, who is absent from the city on business.

THE LIVELY SEVENTH AT HOME AGAIN.

The gallant 7th Regiment left the scene of its joys and sorrows at Peekskill yesterday and embarked on the steamer Columbus at 3 p.m. for the return to New York and civilian life. The usual go-as-you-please circus reigns on board during the three hours of the voyage, and led the bold Captain Holton of the Column, who characterized the 9th Regiment, which he took up in the morning, as "the quietest crowd he ever saw," to reverse this judgment for his passengers on the return trip. Even the extremer frugality of the soldiers while away the time by the purchase of candies and tobacco, and the consumption of their physick-mony. They don't long for another week of bushwhacking, but are entirely satisfied with their seven days' experience.

SUMMER NOTES ABOUT REALTY.

The real estate market last week was not lifted from the rut of usual dudness. At the Exchange little was done in the way of auction sales, but a somewhat better movement is expected this week as several parcels of property are to be sold, under foreclosure or to private parties.

The record of conveyances for the week was 175 in number, involving $2,261,387, against 203, involving $2,840,522, for the corresponding week a year ago. The new week will probably bring in a few more sales, but the market is still dead.
